upvoted 1 times

Martin77 2 years, 3 months ago
The answer should be Business Case, as really the dis-benefits are outcomes which are perceived as negative and are recorded in the Business Case. Business Case is both a theme and a product. Reference 6.2 prince manual:

PRINCE2 requires that two products are produced and maintained for the business case theme:
• B s ness .ase Provides the costs, benefits, expected dis-benefits, risks and timescales against which viability is justified and continuing viability is tested.
It is acceptable to use an alternative document such as a corporate business plan to replace the business case for part of the project lifecycle.
Be e s anag men approacn Defines the management actions that will be put in place to ensure that the project's outcomes are achieved and confirm that the project's benefits are realized.

The correct answer is B : Business Case.
Please refer to section A.2.2. of Appendix A ("Managing successful projects with PRINCE2"):
"Expected dis-benefits The impact of one or more outcomes of the project might be perceived as negative by one or more stakeholders. Dis-benefits are actual consequences of an activity whereas, by definition, a risk is uncertain and may never materialize. For example, a decision to merge two elements of an organization onto a new site may have benefits (e.g. better joint working), costs (e.g. expanding one of the two sites) and dis benefits (e.g. drop in productivity during the merger). Dis-benefits need to be valued and incorporated into the investment appraisal."

I think B is the correct answer here. The Purpose of the Closing a Project process does not mention work packages, nor does it mention the final stage (final management stage):

Reference 20.1 The purpose of the closing a project process is to provide a fixed point at which acceptance of the project's product is confirmed, and to recognize that objectives set out in the original PID have been achieved (or approved changes to the objectives have been achieved), or that the project has nothing more to contribute.
The mentioning of work packages and "final stage" indicate that answer 1 is not correct, thus I think B is the correct option here.

To close the project (when the Closing a Project process is done).
Provide direction and control during the project.

Which statement about the Directing a Project process is true?

A. Provides a mechanism for the Project Board to assure that there is continued business justification

B. Covers the day-to-day activities of the Project Manager

C. Ensures there are regular progress meetings

D. Begins on completion of the Initiating a Project process

Correct Answer: A

This one is tricky.

D is wrong because the directing a project process starts on completion of the starting up a project process and is triggered by the request(!), not completion, to initiate a project.

Therefore A is correct: The directing a project process provides a mechanism for the project board to meet its responsibility for ensuring that there is continued business justification without being overburdened by project activity.

Which of the following statements about the Project Initiation Documentation are true?

1. The Project Initiation Documentation is used to ensure that a sound basis exists before the Project Board authorizes a project.
2. The Project Initiation Documentation should be updated at the end of each stage to reflect the current status of a project.

A. Only 1 is true

B. Only 2 is true

C. Both 1 and 2 are true

D. Neither 1 or 2 are true

Correct Answer: C

omande 1 week ago

Selected Answer: C

For 1.: According to A.20: One of the three primary uses of the PID is "to ensure that the project has a sound basis before asking the project board to make any major commitment to the project". Here, a major commitment is being referred as the authorization of the project, which takes place in the Directing a project process, after the PID has been assembled in the Initiating a project process and the authority from the project board to deliver the project has been requested (see also 16.4.9).
For 2. "The PID is a living product in that it should always reflect the current status, plans and controls of the project. Its component products will need to be updated and re-baselined, as necessary, at the end of each management stage, to reflect the current status of its constituent parts." (From A.20)

Question #92 Topic 1

Which theme estimates the cost of delivering the project?

A. Business Case

B. Change

C. Plans

D. Progress

Correct Answer: C

sudharshan01 1 week, 4 days ago

Selected Answer: C

Option A, "Business Case," is not correct because the Business Case theme in PRINCE2 focuses on justifying the project and ensuring its continued viability and alignment with the organization's objectives. The Business Case outlines the reasons for undertaking the project, the expected benefits, costs, risks, and potential returns on investment.

While the Business Case does provide important information about the overall financial aspects of the project, it does not specifically focus on estimating the cost of delivering the project. The cost estimation and budgeting activities are carried out in the Plans theme, which is specifically dedicated to planning and controlling the resources, time, and costs required to deliver the project's products and services.

In summary, the correct answer is C. Plans, as it is the theme that deals with estimating the cost of delivering the project. The Business Case theme addresses the project's justification and its alignment with the organization's objectives.

Firey 3 weeks, 5 days ago

Estimating costs is an essential part of the Plans theme. This process involves identifying all of the resources required to deliver the project, such as labor, materials, equipment, and any other expenses. The cost estimate should be as accurate as possible, based on historical data, expert judgment, and any other relevant information. This estimate is used to create the project budget, which is a key component of the overall project plan.

Once the cost estimate is completed, it is important to regularly monitor and control project costs throughout the project's life cycle. This ensures that the project remains on budget and that any cost overruns are identified and addressed as soon as possible.

In contrast, the Business Case theme focuses on justifying the investment in the project, considering the expected benefits, costs, and risks.

Project plans are not detailed; they are broad and specify things like the timeline, overall cost, and number of stages to be utilized. Project plans are developed by the project board. The stage plan, on the other hand, is built by the project manager and is more detailed. Lastly, the team plan is incredibly detailed

PRINCE2 requires that four products are produced and maintained:

1. Project product description :A description of the overall project's output, including the customer's quality expectations, together with the acceptance criteria and acceptance methods for the project. As such it applies to a project plan only.

2. Product description : A description of each product's purpose, composition, derivation and quality criteria.

3. Product breakdown structure : A hierarchy of all the products to be produced during a plan.

4. Plan : Provides a statement of how and when objectives are to be achieved, by showing the major products, activities and resources required for the scope of the plan. In PRINCE2, there are three levels of plan: project, stage and team. In addition, PRINCE2 has exception plans, which are created at the same level as the plan they are replacing.

I dont think this is what is meant by hierachy. With hierachy its shown to to have several products, each product having its "sub products" (for example to set up a conference you need a venue, attendees, speakers etc.), and each sub products have their own sub items. So in that way its hierarchical. But being hierarchical doesnt mean there a certain order of products that need to be done first. This can be shown in a flow chart, based on the product breakdown (which products are interdependent, which need to be created first etc.).

D. Project Assurance ensures compliance to standards within the project environment; quality assurance ensures compliance across the organization

Correct Answer: D

Jasonbahr Highly Voted 2 years, 4 months ago

It is important not to confuse quality assurance with project assurance:

Quality assurance provides a check that the project's direction and management are adequate for the nature of the project and that it complies with relevant corporate, programme management or customer standards and policies. Quality assurance is therefore independent of the project.

Project assurance is the project board's responsibility to assure itself that the project is being conducted correctly. The project board members each have a specific area of focus for project assurance, namely business assurance for the executive, user assurance for the senior user(s) and supplier assurance for the senior supplier(s). Project assurance is therefore independent of the project manager but not independent of the project.

So D is the correct answer.

The Project Product Description (PPD) is a document that describes the characteristics of the project's product, which is the final outcome of the project. It is a key document that outlines what the project aims to achieve and how it will deliver the product to the customer. One of the essential elements of the PPD is defining the acceptance methods.
The acceptance method is a set of criteria that the project's product must meet to be considered acceptable or approved. It determines how the project team will verify that the product meets the requirements and quality criteria agreed upon by the customer and stakeholders.

A. Risk category

B. Risk description

C. Risk response

D. Risk status

Correct Answer: C

Firey 3 weeks, 4 days ago

The correct answer is C. Risk response.

Risk response refers to the actions that are identified to bring a situation to a level where exposure to a risk is acceptable. Risk response is a critical aspect of risk management, which involves identifying, assessing, and mitigating potential risks to a project or organization.

Risk response is one of the key components of the risk management process. Once a risk has been identified and assessed, a risk response plan can be developed to mitigate or manage the risk. Which describes a risk effect?

A. The uncertainty expressed as a negative or favourable occurrence

B. The issue which is affecting the project and has resulted in a risk

C. The impact(s) on the project objectives should the threat or opportunity occur

D. The change in the status of a risk in response to actions taken to control it

Correct Answer: C

Firey 3 weeks, 4 days ago

A risk effect refers to the impact or consequences of a risk occurring. Therefore, the correct answer is C - the impact(s) on the project objectives should the threat or opportunity occur. 'prepare an exception plan as directed by the project board'.
BUT: the list of activities in paragraph 19.4 shows:
The activities within the managing a stage boundary process are project manager oriented and are to:
• plan the next management stage
• update the project plan
• update the business case
• report management stage end
• produce an exception plan.

Both B and C seem correct. Refer to benefit of using PRINCE2.
PRINCE2 defines specific project management responsibilities and shows how a project management team should be structured. This ensures that those involved in the management team are clear on their responsibilities. It also ensures that all the people who are needed to manage a project are included in the management team.

Question #154 Topic 1

Which is a purpose of a quality register?

A. To record the quality management approach for a product

B. To issue a unique reference number for each product

C. To detail the number and type of quality activities to be conducted

D. To identify corrective actions that are required after an audit by quality assurance

Correct Answer: C
Reference:

Firey 3 weeks, 4 days ago

Selected Answer: C

A quality register is a document or system that captures and documents information about the quality management activities that are carried out during a project. The purpose of a quality register is to ensure that quality activities are planned, tracked, and reported in a consistent and transparent manner.
Out of the given options, option C, "To detail the number and type of quality activities to be conducted," is the correct answer.

Correction: it is C: The Quality Register
The Quality Register is a diary of the Quality events that take place during the project, such as workshops, reviews, testing and acceptance. At first, the Quality Register will be empty and the Project Manager will get most data from the plans and Product Descriptions. Many Project Managers will use a spreadsheet for a Quality Register.

Ro96 8 months, 1 week ago

Selected Answer: A

Should be A: per PRINCE2 wiki;

Product Description must include the Quality criteria information so that all project stakeholders have a common understanding of the products that will be created.

For example, if you are creating a new can opener, some of the quality criteria might be:

Stainless steel and plastic handle should keep their color for 20 years.
Dishwasher-proof.
Mechanical parts must open 35,000 cans.
Easy to use.
As you can see, the Quality criteria gives a lot more detail about the product.

A is correct, 13.3: Context
The effort involved in starting up a project will vary enormously from project to project. If the project is part of a programme, the programme itself should provide the project brief and will appoint some, if not all, members of the project board, thus eliminating much of the work required in this process. In such cases, the project manager should validate what is provided by the programme and, if necessary, recommend modifications.

I think C is the answer here, as per 14.5.4.4 from the Prince2 manual - the programme manager should ensure the appointment of the executive and project manager, prepare the project brief, alert the project manager to any relevant previous lessons and ensure an initial project management team is appointed.
upvoted 1 times

Wombat1987 2 years, 4 months ago
The correct answer is D. Verifying the project approach and capturing previous lessons
You do not need to verify the project approach as it has been already done on the Programme level within Project Brief preparation:

https://prince2.wiki/processes/starting-up-a-project/
During this process, the project mandate will be expanded into the Project Brief. Keep in mind that the Project Brief will be used by the Project Board to decide whether to Initiate the project or not. Note: if the project is part of a program, then the program will provide most of the Project Brief. In fact, most of the work in this process will already be done by the program.

Question #176 Topic 1

According to the 'continued business justification' principle, what must project benefits be aligned to?

A. Regular deliveries throughout the project

B. The business objectives

C. The direction of the project board

D. The technology available

Correct Answer: B

Firey 3 weeks, 4 days ago

The continued business justification principle is one of the seven principles of PRINCE2, a widely-used project management methodology. This principle emphasizes the need for a project to have a clear and ongoing justification for its existence throughout its lifecycle. Answer B, "The business objectives," is therefore the correct answer. It is important for project managers to regularly review and update the project's business case to ensure that it remains aligned with the organization's objectives. This may involve re-evaluating the project's scope, timeline, and resources to ensure that it continues to deliver value and benefits to the organization.

The closing a project process is one of the processes in the PRINCE2 methodology, and it represents the final stage of a project. The main purpose of this process is to ensure that the project is completed in a controlled and organized manner and that it delivers its intended benefits.
The correct answer to this question is B. To confirm the project has nothing more to deliver. This means that all the project objectives have been met, all the deliverables have been produced, and all the stakeholders are satisfied with the results. At this point, the project can be formally closed, and the team can be disbanded.

D:
7.2 PRINCE2's requirements for organization
To be following PRINCE2, a project must, as a minimum:
● define its organization structure and roles. This must minimally ensure that all of the responsibilities in PRINCE2's role descriptions are fulfilled (PRINCE2's defined roles and responsibilities principle)
● document the rules for delegating change authority responsibilities, if required
● define its approach to communicating and engaging with stakeholders.
PRINCE2 requires that two products are produced and maintained for the organization theme:
● PID In the context of the organization theme, this provides the single source of reference for how the project is to be managed. The PID sets out the project management team structure and roles.
● Communication management approach This describes the means and frequency of communication to stakeholders both internal and external to the project.

D is the right answer.

https://www.knowledgetrain.co.uk/project-management/prince2/prince2-themes#theme-6
Minimum requirements

You must define a risk management approach covering the risk management procedure to be used, and the roles and responsibilities for risk management. You must maintain some form of risk register to record and manage risks and must ensure that risks are identified, assessed, managed and reviewed throughout the project. You must use lessons to inform risk identification and management.

The correct answer is D. This process is a "handshake" between PM and TM. It consists of three stages: you agree with a work package, you execute it, you deliver it. There is nothing about project board.

https://prince2.wiki/processes/managing-product-delivery/
Managing Product Delivery Activities

Accepting a Work Package: The Team Manager accepts the Work Package from the Project Manager and creates the Team Plan to manage the development of the products.
Executing a Work Package: The team produces the products, requests the quality checks, obtains approval, and reports to the Project Manager using the Checkpoint Report.
Delivering a Work Package: Delivering a Work Package is delivering proof that the products are complete.
This involves ensuring that the Quality Register is updated, that approvals are done, that products are delivered as described in the Change Control Approach , and that the Project Manager is notified.

upvoted 1 times

Anapellicer 5 months, 1 week ago

Selected Answer: D

D is the correct answer. Producing highlight and end stage reports is a minimum requirement for applying the 'progress' theme in PRINCE2 methodology. The highlight report is produced at regular intervals (usually weekly) and summarizes the status of the project, including progress against the plan, issues and risks, and any changes to the plan. The end stage report is produced at the end of each stage and summarizes the outcomes of the stage, including any issues, risks, or changes that occurred during the stage.

Option C (To manage by exception against tolerances set for time and cost) is an important consideration for the 'manage by exception' principle, but it is not a minimum requirement for the 'progress' theme.

A seem correct! According to PRINCE2, the level of tailoring should be defined during the initiation stage. At this stage, the project team assesses the level of tailoring required for the project and identifies which PRINCE2 processes, themes, and management products are necessary to be applied. By defining the level of tailoring early in the project, the team can ensure that the project is managed consistently and effectively throughout its lifecycle, while also being tailored to the specific needs and characteristics of the project.
